

SHANGHAI UNITED PROMOTION CENTER FOR EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT AND DISASTER RISK REDUCTION

China

ABOUT US

The Shanghai United Promotion Center for Emergency Management and Disaster Risk Reduction (SUPER) is the first domestic NGO for Disaster Reduction and Emergency Management professionals.

Registered on Dec. 28th, 2011 in China, the Center also acts as the International Association of Emergency Managers (IAEM) in the country.

WHAT WE DO

The Shanghai United Promotion Center for Emergency Management and Disaster Risk Reduction provides emergency management and disaster reduction consulting and training, evaluation, certification and project management services.

In addition to the services mentioned above, SUPER recruits members and volunteers for the public service and provides internship opportunities for students to enhance their skills and capabilities.

SUPER also hosts international conferences, summits, workshops and seminars to promote Emergency Management and Disaster Risk Reduction.

IMPACT

Our services and activities facilitate networking among professionals and NGOs, who can share experiences and information, and strengthen capabilities. This, combined with our certificate program for communities, contribute to raising awareness and improving skills on DR not only in communities but also society.

LESSONS LEARNED

- Designing the standard and specific contents for trainees is the most important part of training programs.
- Experienced lecturers are another key factor to successful training.

FUTURE PLANS

SUPER plans to develop a standardized training and certification program for NGOs and government in China.

PARTNERS

Our Center collaborates with the local government for disaster risk reduction trainings. Local governments recruit the trainees and our Center conducts the trainings.

We also collaborate with some foundations such as the Asia Foundation, which provides training programmes designed and conducted by our Center to NGOs.
